A Dolphin called Jock

by Melody Horrill

Melody Horrill's name may be familiar to you as a television journalist, news reporter, or weather presenter. More recently she has been working on South Australian environmental issues, including the plight of our pods of dolphins in the Port River.

However, Melody's story tells of a troubled and emotionally traumatic childhood, fighting parents and their migration from England to Adelaide in the early 1970's. Witnessing domestic violence played a large part in her growing up; as she struggled to feel a part of her family, she loved to escape into nature, her books and a growing love of animals. She began to find her feet when she went to University, one day volunteering to help monitor pods of river dolphins that lived in the waters of Port Adelaide. There for the first time she met Jock, a solitary dolphin with a damaged fin. Melody bonded with him and that was the start of freeing herself from the demons of her own past. Written with insight and compassion, her life-changing relationship with the river dolphins set her on the path to heal, gave her hope and find peace, and launch her campaign to help save these beautiful creatures.

The Younger Wife

by Sally Hepworth

A married man embarks on a new relationship with a much younger woman when his wife is diagnosed with Alzheimer's disease and moved into a nursing home. His two adult daughters are shocked and enraged to learn their father plans to marry her. Rare moments and lucid conversations with their mother hint that the marriage had a darker side...and then there is the discovery of a small fortune hidden in the shed ... Each woman has her own secrets and the plot is well-written and explores each one's point of view. The fast-moving story exposes the character's flaws and challenges, and how the relationships have been shaped by all this. Suspenseful and gripping reading if you like a drama with a bit of a twist at the end.
